
THE PLAIN DEALER

More From The Plain Dealer | Subscribe To The Plain Dealer

Business Diary

Monday, May 08, 2006

RESTAURANTS

J's Pizza Market starts franchising

J's Pizza Market in Mentor is ready to start franchising its take-and-bake pizza shops in Northeast Ohio. The business will look for franchisees elsewhere in the state after it establishes a few locations in the region, said Jonathan Kelley, the company's founder and owner. Franchisees should expect an initial investment of about $155,000 and will undergo extensive training on food preparation, inventory management and health/safety issues, as well as advertising and marketing. For more information, go online to www.jspizzamarket.com.